Plaintiff Brigitte Stelzer (“Plaintiff” or “Stelzer”) respectfully submits her proposed findings of fact, proposed conclusions of law and inquest memorandum of law in further support of her motion for default judgment against defendant Breitbart News Network, LLC (“Defendant”).

PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Plaintiff’s claim for copyright infringement under 17 U.S.C. § 501 is based on Defendant’s unlawful expropriation of Plaintiff’s registered photograph of Maya Fairweather with her boyfriend’s pit bull (the “Photograph”).

2. Stelzer created the Photograph and then licensed the Photograph to the New York Post. On November 30, 2016, the New York Post ran an article that featured the Photograph titled Hero dog stops rape. Stelzer’s name was featured in a gutter credit identifying her as the photographer of the Photograph. A true and correct copy of the New York Post article is attached as Exhibit B to the Complaint. [Dkt. #1-B]

3. Plaintiff is the owner of the Photograph and is in possession of a registration certificate from with the U.S. Copyright Office, bearing No. VA 2-026-482, with content title “Stelzer, Maya Fairweather, 11_30_2016.jpg.” [Dkt. #18-3]

4. On or about Defendant 7, 2016, Defendant re-published the Photograph on its commercial website www.Breitbart.com (the “Website”) in an article entitled New York City Teen Said Pit Bull Saved Her From Would-Be Rapist. See URL: See: <https://www.breitbart.com/politics/2016/12/07/new-york-city-teen-said-pit-bull-saved-rapist/>. The article featured the Photograph. [Dkt. #1-3]

5. Defendant also removed Plaintiff's gutter credit when it re-published the Photograph on their Website, in violation of section 1202(b)(3) of the Digital Millennium Copyright Act ("DMCA"). [Dkt. #1-3]

6. Defendant did not license the Photograph from Plaintiff for its use, nor did Defendant have Plaintiff's permission or consent to publish the Photograph as part of their commercial website.

PROPOSED CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Liability for Copyright Infringement

1. When a default judgment is entered, the defendant's failure to respond constitutes an admission of the well-pleaded factual allegations in the complaint, except as to claims relating to damages." Greyhound Exhibitgroup, Inc. v. E.L.U.L. Realty Corp., 973 F.2d 155, 158 (2d Cir.1992).

2. Here, the Complaint sets forth factual allegations which, if taken as true, establish Defendant's violation of Plaintiff's copyright in the Photograph. To establish a claim of copyright infringement, plaintiff must show two elements: (1) ownership of a valid copyright; and (2) unauthorized copying of the copyrighted work. Feist Publ'ns, Inc. v. Rural Tel. Serv. Co., 499 U.S. 340, 361 (1991); Castle Rock Entm't, Inc. v. Carol Publ'g Group, Inc., 150 F.3d 132, 137 (2d Cir. 1998).

3. Plaintiff owns a valid copyright in and to the Photograph. [Compl. ¶¶ 9-10]

4. Defendant infringed Plaintiff's copyright in the Photograph by reproducing and publicly displaying the Photograph on the Website. [Compl. ¶¶ 11]

5. Defendant is not, and has never been, licensed or otherwise authorized to reproduce, publically display, distribute and/or use the Photograph. [Compl. ¶ 12]

6. The acts of Defendant constitute infringement of Plaintiff's copyright and exclusive rights under copyright in violation of Sections 106 and 501 of the Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. §§ 106 and 501.

Willfulness

7. Because Defendant defaulted, the acts of infringement by Defendant are deemed willful and in reckless disregard to Plaintiff's rights. See Chloe v. Zarafshan, No. 06-CV-3140 (RJH) (MHD), 2009 WL 2956827, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 15, 2009) ("Willfulness may be established by a party's default because an innocent party would presumably have made an effort to defend itself."); Rovio Entm't, Ltd. v. Allstar Vending, Inc., 97 F. Supp. 3d 536, 546 (S.D.N.Y. 2015) ("Copyright infringement is deemed willful by virtue of a defendant's default."); All-Star Mktg. Grp., LLC v. Media Brands Co., 775 F.Supp.2d 613, 621–22 (S.D.N.Y. 2011) ("Defendants have defaulted and by virtue of their default are deemed to be willful infringers").

Statutory Damages

8. As a direct and proximate cause of the infringement by the Defendant of Plaintiff's copyright and exclusive rights under copyright, Plaintiff is entitled to statutory damages up to $150,000 per work infringed for Defendant's willful infringement of the Photograph, pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 504(c).

9. The Copyright Act provides for statutory damages as follows:

[T]he copyright owner may elect, at any time before final judgment is rendered, to recover, instead of actual damages and profits, an award of statutory damages for all infringements involved in the action, with respect to any one work, for which any one infringer is liable individually, or for which any two or more infringers are liable jointly and severally, in a sum of not less than $750 or more than $30,000 as the court considers just. For the purposes of this subsection, all the parts of a compilation or derivative work constitute one work.

17 U.S.C. § 504(c)(1)

10. Courts determining statutory damages pursuant to § 504(c) consider the following factors: (1) the infringer's state of mind; (2) the expenses saved, and profits earned, by the infringer; (3) the revenue lost by the copyright holder; (4) the deterrent effect on the infringer and third parties; (5) the infringer's cooperation in providing evidence concerning the value of the infringing material; and (6) the conduct and attitude of the parties. See Bryant v. Media Rights Prods., Inc., 603 F.3d 135, 144 (2d Cir. 2010); see also Prokos v. Grossman, No. 19-CV- 4028 (BMC), 2020 WL 729761, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Feb. 13, 2020) (quoting Bryant) (same). “Plaintiff gets the benefit of the doubt in applying these factors because [Defendant]’s default makes it difficult for [it] to obtain discovery showing [Defendant]’s finances.” Prokos, 2020 WL 729761, at *2.

11. The Court does not need to assess Plaintiff’s loss of revenues or Defendant’s profits to calculate a statutory damages award. See Tu v. TAD System Technology, Inc., 2009 WL 2905780 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 10, 2009) (“the failure to establish actual damages does not impair this Court’s ability to devise a proper statutory award.”). Even if evidence of Plaintiff’s actual losses is available, there is no requirement that Plaintiff produce such evidence after electing to recover statutory damages. See CJ Products, LLC v. Your Store Online LLC, No. 11-cv-9513 (GBD) (AJP), 2012 WL 2856068, fn. 4 (S.D.N.Y. July 12, 2012).

ARGUMENT

POINT I: PLAINTIFF MEETS ALL PROCEDURAL REQUIREMENTS FOR THE COURT’S ENTRY OF DEFAULT JUDGMENT

“Rule 55(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides that when a party moves for judgment against an adverse party who has failed to answer or otherwise appear in the action, the court may enter judgment against the defaulting party.” Coated Fabrics Co. v. Mirle Corp., No. 06-cv-5415, 2008 WL 163598, *4 (E.D.N.Y. Jan. 16, 2008) (citing Fed.R.Civ.P. 55(b)). Further, a plaintiff asserting copyright infringement may be granted a default judgment where the defendant has failed to answer or to move against the complaint. See Broadcast Music, Inc. v. R Bar of Manhattan, Inc., 919 F.Supp. 656, 659 (S.D.N.Y.1996). As illustrated below, Plaintiff has met the procedural and substantive requirements to warrant the Court’s entry of default.

Rule 55(b)(2) of the Federal Rules, in tandem with the Southern District of New York Local Rule 55.2(b) set forth certain procedural prerequisites that must be met before a default judgment may be entered. Here, the record shows that Plaintiff has met the procedural requirements because she has submitted an attorney declaration with the required information, a proposed default judgment, a memorandum of law, a Statement of Damages, and copies of the pleadings; a copy of the affidavit of service, and the Clerk’s Certificate of Default.

POINT II: THE WELL-PLEADED ALLEGATIONS OF THE COMPLAINT ESTABLISH THE DEFENDANT’S VIOLATION OF PLAINTIFF’S COPYRIGHT

When a default judgment is entered, the defendant’s failure to respond constitutes an admission of the well-pleaded factual allegations in the complaint, except as to claims relating to damages.” Coated Fabrics Co., 2008 WL 163598, at *4 (citing Greyhound Exhibitgroup, Inc. v. E.L.U.L. Realty Corp., 973 F.2d 155, 158 (2d Cir.1992); Au Bon Pain Corp. v. Artect, Inc., 653 F.2d 61, 65 (2d Cir. 1981)).

Here, the Complaint sets forth factual allegations which, if taken as true, establish Defendant’s violation of Plaintiff’s copyright in the Photograph. To establish a claim of copyright infringement, plaintiff must show two elements: (1) ownership of a valid copyright; and (2) unauthorized copying of the copyrighted work. Feist Publ'ns, Inc. v. Rural Tel. Serv.

Co., 499 U.S. 340, 361 (1991); Castle Rock Entm't, Inc. v. Carol Publ'g Group, Inc., 150 F.3d 132, 137 (2d Cir. 1998).

A. PLAINTIFF OWNS A VALID COPYRIGHT

(1) Plaintiff's Photograph is Subject to Copyright Protection

“Protection under the copyright statute extends to pictorial works[.]” Rogers v. Koons, 960 F.2d 301, 306 (2d Cir. 1992) (citing 17 U.S.C. § 102(a)(5)). “Even the slightest artistic touch will meet the originality test for a photograph.” Ets-Hokin v. Skyy Spirits, Inc., 225 F.3d 1068, 1074-76 (9th Cir. 2000); see also Jewelers' Circular Pub. Co. v. Keystone Pub. Co., 274 F. 932, 934 (S.D.N.Y. 1921) (Judge Learned Hand) (“no photograph, however simple, can be unaffected by the personal influence of the author.”). “Elements of originality in a photograph may include posing the subjects, lighting, angle, selection of film and camera, evoking the desired expression, and almost any other variant involved.” Rogers, 960 F.2d at 307 (citations omitted); see also Kisch v. Ammirati & Puris Inc., 657 F.Supp. 380, 382 (S.D.N.Y. 1987) (originality expressed through “the photographer’s selection of lighting, shading, positioning and timing.”)

Here, Plaintiff alleges that she photographed Maya Fairweather [Compl., ¶ 7] and that she is the author of the Photograph [Id. at ¶ 9]. The Photograph is protectable under the Copyright Act because Plaintiff exercised a personal choice in the selection of the subjects; choice of her own professional camera equipment; and determination of the precise time when the photograph was taken.¹

(2) Plaintiff's Photograph is Subject to a Valid Copyright Registration

Pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 410(c), a certificate of registration from the U.S. Copyright Office, if timely obtained, “constitute[s] prima facie evidence of the validity of the copyright . . .” 17 U.S.C. § 410(c). A certificate of copyright registration is prima facie evidence of both valid ownership of copyright and originality. Scholz Design, Inc. v. Sard Custom Homes, LLC, 691 F.3d 182, 186 (2d Cir. 2012). To be timely, a certificate of registration must be obtained “before or within five years after first publication” of a work. Island Software & Computer Serv., Inc. v. Microsoft Corp., 413 F.3d 257 (2d Cir. 2005). Thus, “[p]ossession of a registration certificate creates a rebuttable presumption that the work in question is copyrightable.” Whimsicality, Inc. v. Rubie's Costume Co. Inc., 891 F.2d 452, 455 (2d Cir. 1989). A party’s “proffer of its certificate of copyright registration thus shifts to [the opposing party] the burden of proving the invalidity of the copyright.” Fonar Corp. v. Domenick, 105 F.3d 99, 104 (2d Cir.), cert. denied, 522 U.S. 908 (1997).

Here, Plaintiff is in possession of a registration from the U.S. Copyright Office, bearing registration number VA 2-026-482, as maintained by the Public Catalog on the Copyright Office [Dkt. #18-3]. The 482 Registration was obtained within five years after first publication of the work, which took place on or about November 30, 2016. [Id.] Accordingly, the 482 Registration serves as prima facie evidence of Plaintiff’s valid copyright ownership and creates a rebuttable presumption that the work in question is copyrightable. Whimsicality, Inc., 891 F.2d at 455. Defendant has not and cannot sustain its burden of showing that the 482 Registration is invalid.

B. DEFENDANT COPIED PLAINTIFF’S REGISTERED WORK WITHOUT AUTHORIZATION

To satisfy the second element of an infringement claim, a plaintiff must show both that her work was “actually copied” and that the portion copied amounts to an “improper or unlawful appropriation.” Castle Rock, 150 F.3d at 137 (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

1. Defendant’s Copy is Virtually Identical to the Registered Work and is Therefore “Strikingly Similar” As a Matter of Law

Copying can be proven in several ways, including through indirect proof establishing that the defendant had “access to the copyrighted work and that the similarities between the works are probative of copying.” Procter & Gamble Co. v. Colgate-Palmolive Co., 199 F.3d 74, 77 (2d Cir. 1999). However, “[i]f the two works are so strikingly similar as to preclude the possibility of independent creation, ‘copying’ may be proved without a showing of access.” Lipton, 71 F.3d at 471 (granting summary judgment on infringement liability where works at issue were virtually identical). “Striking similarity exists when two works are so nearly alike that the only reasonable explanation for such a great degree of similarity is that the later was copied from the first.” Gal v. Viacom Intern., Inc., 518 F.Supp.2d 526, 537 (S.D.N.Y. 2007); see also U.S. Media Corp., Inc. v. Edde Entertainment, Inc., No. 94-cv-4849 (MBM), 1996 WL 520901, * 3 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 12, 1996) (finding striking similarity where “there is no real question that the films owned by the plaintiff and those distributed by the defendants are essentially identical”). “The court’s task is to apply logic and experience to determine if copying is the only realistic basis for the similarities at hand.” Id.; see also NIMMER ON COPYRIGHT §13.02[B] (2015) (“At base, ‘striking similarity’ simply means that, in human experience, it is virtually impossible that the two works could have been independently created.”)

Here, the Complaint alleges that Defendant actually copied the Photograph by reproducing and publically displaying the Photograph on the Website. [Compl., ¶ 11, Ex. C]. Indeed, direct side-by-side comparisons between the original Photograph and the image used by Defendant on its website demonstrates that they are virtually identical. Defendant has merely reproduced a wholesale duplication of the Photograph.

2. Defendant's Copying is Unauthorized and Therefore Improper

Section 106 of the Copyright Act gives the owner of a valid copyright the exclusive rights, inter alia, to “reproduce the copyrighted work in copies;” “to prepare derivative works based on the copyrighted work”; and to “distribute copies ... of the copyrighted work to the public by sale or . . . lease.” 17 U.S.C. § 106(1)-(3).

According to the Complaint, Plaintiff never granted Defendant authorization to copy the Photograph [Compl., ¶ 12] and therefore violated his rights under 17 U.S.C. §§ 106 and 501. Defendant's copying therefore amounted to “an improper and unlawful appropriation.” Castle Rock, 150 F.3d at 137. Having adequately pled a valid copyright registration certificate and proof of unlawful copying, default judgment in favor of Plaintiff should be granted on the issue of Defendant's liability for copyright infringement.

C. DEFENDANT HAS FAILED TO INTERPOSE A MERITORIOUS DEFENSE

In considering a motion for default judgment, the court considers “(1) ‘whether the defendant's default was willful; (2) whether defendant has a meritorious defense to plaintiff's claims; and (3) the level of prejudice the non-defaulting party would suffer as a result of the denial of the motion for default judgment.’” Rodriguez v. Almighty Cleaning, Inc., 784 F.Supp.2d 114, 123 (E.D.N.Y. 2011) (quotation and other citations omitted); see also Mason Tenders District Council Welfare Fund v. M & M Contracting & Consulting, 193 F.R.D. 112, 114–15 (S.D.N.Y. 2000) (citation omitted).

Here, the Court's granting of Plaintiff's motion for default judgment is warranted because (1) Defendant has not moved against the Complaint, has failed to answer and has otherwise failed to appear before this Court, indicating that defendant's default is willful; (2) Defendant has not asserted any defense to the copyright infringement claim and, in any event, does not have a cognizable defense; and (3) plaintiff would suffer a high level of prejudice if the Court were to deny her motion because the Copyright Act entitles him to recover statutory damages for Defendant's violation of his exclusive rights under 17 U.S.C. § 106, such that denial of this motion would cause deprivation of Plaintiff's statutorily protected rights and would frustrate the purpose of the Copyright Act.

POINT III: FOR COUNT I, THE COURT SHOULD AWARD $30,000.00 IN STATUTORY DAMAGES

In the Digital Age, copyright infringement has reached epidemic proportions on-line. See, e.g., United States v. Elcom Ltd., 203 F. Supp. 2d 1111, 1132 (N.D. Cal. 2002) ("piracy of intellectual property has reached epidemic proportions" in internet age); Jessica Silbey et al., Existential Copyright & Professional Photography, 95 Notre Dame L. Rev. 263, 267 (2019) ("The current, online environment makes infringements too numerous to fight exhaustively."); Ben Depoorter, If You Build It, They Will Come, 33 Berkeley Tech. L.J. 711, 712 (2018) ("Copyright has a small claims problem The time, effort, and legal costs involved with litigation outweigh the resources available to many copyright holders; especially in light of the modest amounts at stake in most disputes.").

As such, a defaulting defendant in an infringement action should not be accorded the proverbial “slap on the wrist,” but should instead be held accountable to the maximum extent of federal law for the theft of intellectual property. Consistent with judicial precedent in this Circuit, and to deter the epidemic of future infringement, the Court should award $30,000 in statutory damages on Count I for copyright infringement.

A. PLAINTIFF ELECTS STATUTORY DAMAGES UNDER THE COPYRIGHT ACT

For violation of 17 U.S.C. § 501, Plaintiff seeks $30,00.00 in statutory damages for willful copyright infringement. Plaintiff’s copyright infringement claim qualifies for statutory damages under 17 U.S.C. § 504(c) because the Photograph was registered within three months of initial publication. See 17 U.S.C. § 412(2); see also Arista Records LLC v. Lime Grp. LLC, No. 06 CV 5936 KMW, 2011 WL 1226277, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 29, 2011) (noting that §412(2) provides a three-month grace period to register a copyright after the work’s first publication).

Here, the Photograph was initially published on November 30, 2016 and the effective date of copyright registration is December 21, 2016, within the three-month grace period to qualify for statutory damages under 17 U.S.C. § 504(c) plus attorneys’ fees under 17 U.S.C. § 505. Attached as Exhibit C to the Liebowitz declaration is a true and correct copy of Plaintiff’s relevant copyright registration, as maintained by the Public Catalog on the U.S. Copyright Office’s website. [Dkt. #18-3]

B. STATUTORY DAMAGES MAY BE AWARDED WITHOUT ANY PROOF OF ACTUAL DAMAGES OR INFRINGER’S PROFITS

“A statutory damages award under the Copyright Act is by definition an authorized civil penalty.” Capital Records, Inc. v. MP3tunes, LLC, 48 F.Supp.3d 703, 732 (S.D.N.Y. 2014).

“[A]n award of statutory damages may serve purposes traditionally associated with legal relief, such as compensation and punishment.” Feltner v. Columbia Pictures Television, Inc., 523 U.S. 340, 352 (1998); see also Lauratex Textile Corp. v. Allton Knitting Mills, Inc., 519 F.Supp. 730, 733 (S.D.N.Y.1981) (explaining that statutory damages may be used to “provide a deterrent for would-be infringers”).² “[S]tatutory damages are particularly appropriate where a defendant has defaulted.” Microsoft Corp. v. Atek 3000 Computer Inc., No. 06-cv-6403 (SLT) (SMG), 2008 WL 2884761, at *3 (E.D.N.Y. July 23, 2008).

“At the plaintiff’s election, Section 504 of the Copyright Act allows the Court to assess statutory damages for each work for which the copyright has been infringed, in a ‘sum of not less than $750 or more than $30,000 as the court considers just,’ 17 U.S.C. § 504(c)(1), without requiring a plaintiff to make a showing of profit by the defendant or loss by the plaintiff as a result of the infringing activity.” Peer Int’l Corp. v. Max Music & Entm’t, Inc., No. 03 CIV. 0996 (KMW-DF), 2004 WL 1542253, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. July 9, 2004); see also Starbucks Corp. v. Morgan, 99 Civ. 1404, 2000 WL 949665 at *2 (S.D.N.Y. July 11, 2000) (statutory damages “are available without proof of plaintiff’s actual damages or proof of any damages.”). Additionally, Section 504 authorizes the Court to increase the statutory damage award to any amount up to $150,000 for each work involved, if the infringement was committed willfully. See 17 U.S.C. § 504(c)(2).

Here, Plaintiff elects to pursue statutory damages under the Copyright Act. 17 U.S.C. § 504(c). Accordingly, the Court does not need to assess Plaintiff’s loss of revenues or ² See also Stevens v. Aeonian Press, Inc., No. 00 Civ. 6330(JSM), 2002 WL 31387224 at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 23, 2002) (“[S]tatutory damages are not meant to be merely compensatory or restitutionary The statutory award is also meant ‘to discourage wrongful conduct.’”); Broadcast Music, Inc., v. R Bar of Manhattan, Inc., 919 F.Supp. 656, 660 (S.D.N.Y. 1996) (in order “to put infringers ‘on notice that it costs less to obey the copyright laws than to violate them,’ . . . a statutory damage award should significantly exceed the amount of unpaid license fees.”).

Defendant's profits to calculate an award. See Tu, 2009 WL 2905780 (“the failure to establish actual damages does not impair this Court’s ability to devise a proper statutory award.”).

Indeed, even if evidence of Plaintiff’s actual losses is available, there is no requirement that Plaintiff produce such evidence after electing to recover statutory damages. See CJ Products, LLC v. Your Store Online LLC, No. 11-cv-9513 (GBD) (AJP), 2012 WL 2856068, fn. 4 (S.D.N.Y. July 12, 2012) (“Under the current [Copyright] Act, the copyright owner may elect to recover statutory damages, instead of actual damages and defendant’s profits. He may, moreover, make such an election regardless of the adequacy of the evidence offered as to his actual damages and the amount of defendant’s profits, and even if he has intentionally declined to offer such evidence, although it was available.”) (quoting 4 Melville B. Nimmer & David Nimmer, NIMMER ON COPYRIGHT § 14.04[A] (2009 ed.) (italics added); Pearson Education, Inc. v. Nugroho, No. 08-cv-8034 (DAB) (AJP), 2009 WL 3429610, *5 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 27, 2009) (same).³

Instead, the Court may rely solely on the Defendant’s willfulness in determining the appropriate amount within the statutory range. See, e.g., Entral Group Int’l LLC v. Honey Cafe on 5th, Inc., 2006 WL 3694584, at *6 (E.D.N.Y. Dec. 14, 2006) (awarding $150,000 for defendants’ willful infringement although neither the plaintiff’s losses nor the defendants’ profits were established); Van Der Zee v. Greenidge, 2006 WL 44020, *2 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 6, 2006) (“Absent additional evidence of profits lost and repeated by the parties, this court must rely Jan. 13, 2020) (“it is obviously incumbent upon the plaintiff to submit a record sufficient to support the amount of statutory damages that he is seeking.”); Lowery v. Fire Talk LLC, No. 19-CV-3737 (LDH) (RER) 2020 WL 5441785, at *3 (June 29, 2020), report and recommendation adopted, 2020 WL 5425768 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 10, 2020) (“plaintiff still has the ability—and the responsibility—to present some minimal amount of evidence in support of [its] damages request.”).

Dec. 3, 2004) (“Given the absence of evidence presented to the Court regarding the parties’ profits and losses . . . I must rely principally on the fact that the defendants’ actions were willful . . .”); see also F.W. Woolworth Co. v. Contemporary Arts, 344 U.S. 228, 233, 73 S.Ct. 222, 97 L.Ed. 276 (1952) (“Even for uninjurious and unprofitable invasions of copyright the court may, if it deems just, impose a liability within statutory limits to sanction and vindicate the statutory policy [of discouraging wrongful conduct].”)

Here, this Court should reject the flawed notion that it is Plaintiff’s “responsibility” to present evidence of actual damages (i.e., lost licensing fees) in order to calculate statutory damages on default. See, e.g., Seelie, 2020 WL 136659 at *2; Lowery, 2020 WL 5441785, at *3. Under Second Circuit law, a statutory damages plaintiff has no obligation to show actual damages or losses. See Psihoyos v. John Wiley & Sons, Inc., No. 11 CIV. 1416 JPO, 2012 WL 5506121, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 7, 2012), aff’d, 748 F.3d 120, 127 (2d Cir. 2014).

In Psihoyos, the Second Circuit affirmed awards of $100,000 and $30,0000, respectively, for two separate photographs based on a jury’s finding of willful infringement, finding that “[a]lthough revenue lost is one factor to consider, we have not held that there must be a direct correlation between statutory damages and actual damages. To suggest otherwise is to ignore the various other factors a court may consider and the purposes of statutory damages in the willful infringement context.” Psihoyos, 748 F.3d at 127 (emphasis added); see also Agence France Presse v. Morel, No. 10-CV-2730-AJN, 2014 WL 3963124, at *12 (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 13, 2014) (“it is not true that there must be ‘some correlation’ between actual and statutory damages”); Yurman

Design, 262 F.3d at 113 (upholding jury’s statutory damages award that defendant argued bore “little relationship” to actual damages).

C. AS A MATTER OF LAW, THE COURT MAY DRAW AN INFERENCE OF WILLFULNESS FROM DEFENDANT’S FAILURE TO APPEAR AND DEFEND THE ACTION

In connection with the determination of enhanced damages under § 504, the Second Circuit has defined “willfulness” as the defendant’s actual or constructive knowledge that his actions constitute an infringement; thus, “reckless disregard of the copyright holder’s rights . . . suffices to warrant award of the enhanced damages.” N.A.S Imp. Corp. v. Chenson Enterpr., 968 F.2d 250, 252 (2d Cir. 1992) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted); see also Yurman Design, Inc. v. PAJ, Inc., 262 F.3d 101, 112 (2d Cir. 2001) (“Willfulness in this context means that the defendant recklessly disregarded the possibility that its conduct represented infringement. A plaintiff is not required to show that the defendant had knowledge that its actions constituted an infringement.”) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted).

It is well-established in this Circuit that the Court may infer willfulness from a defendant’s failure to answer or otherwise appear. See, e.g., Rovio Entm’t, Ltd. v. Allstar Vending, Inc., 97 F. Supp. 3d 536, 546 (S.D.N.Y. 2015) (“Copyright infringement is deemed willful by virtue of a defendant’s default.”); All-Star Mktg. Grp., LLC v. Media Brands Co., 775 F.Supp.2d 613, 621–22 (S.D.N.Y. 2011) (“Defendants have defaulted and by virtue of their default are deemed to be willful infringers”); Chloe v. Zarafshan, 06 Civ. 3140, 2009 WL 2956827 at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 15, 2009) (“Willfulness may be established by a party’s default because an innocent party would presumably have made an effort to defend itself.”); Malletier v. Carducci Leather Fashions, Inc., 648 F.Supp.2d 501, 504 (S.D.N.Y.2009) (“Here, by virtue of its default, [defendant] has admitted [plaintiff]’s allegation that it acted knowingly and intentionally or with reckless disregard or willful blindness to [plaintiff]’s rights.”); Microsoft

Corp. v. Computer Care Ctr., Inc., No. 06-CV-1429 SLT RLM, 2008 WL 4179653, at *10 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 10, 2008) (“The Court may infer that defendants’ infringement was willful from their failure to continue to defend this lawsuit.”); Van Der Zee, 2006 WL 44020, at *3 (“[W]illful infringement may ... be inferred from [defendant's] failure to appear and defend the action.”); Peer Int’l Corp., 2004 WL 1542253, at *3 (“the entry of the default judgment alone supports the finding of willfulness.”); Fallaci v. New Gazette Literary Corp., 568 F.Supp. 1172, 1173 (S.D.N.Y. 1983) (in a copyright case, the court “dr[e]w a further inference of willfulness from the defendant’s failure to appear and defend th[e] action, especially in light of plaintiff’s allegation of willfulness and demand for increased statutory damages applicable to willful infringers”) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

Here, Defendant’s utter disregard for this proceeding in its entirety warrant the Court’s finding of willfulness.

D. AN AWARD OF $30,000 IS APPROPRIATE TO SERVE THE PURPOSES OF THE COPYRIGHT ACT’S STATUTORY DAMAGES PROVISION

Copyright infringement cases brought by individual copyright holders do more than compensate victims. They secure intellectual property rights from widespread invasion by largescale corporations, maintain order in society, and promote the Progress of the Sciences and the useful Arts. See Apple Computer, Inc. v. Franklin Computer Corp., 714 F.2d 1240, 1255 (3d Cir. 1983) (public interest can only be served by upholding copyright protections, thus preventing misappropriation of skills, creative energies, and resources invested in protected work); see also Walt Disney Co. v. Best, No. 88 Civ. 1595(SWK), 1990 WL 144209, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 26, 1990) (one of the primary purposes of the Copyright Act is to “deter future infringements.”); *Energy Intelligence Grp., Inc. v. POINT IV: THE WELL-PLEADED ALLEGATIONS OF THE COMPLAINT
ESTABLISH THE DEFENDANT’S DMCA VIOLATION

To establish a DMCA claim pursuant to 17 U.S.C § 1202(b)(3), a plaintiff must establish: “(1) the existence of CMI on the infringed work; (2) distribution of the infringed work containing missing and/or altered CMI; (3) that the distribution was done knowing that the CMI was removed and/or altered without permission; and (4) that the distribution was done knowing that it would induce, enable, facilitate, or conceal an infringement.” Mango v. BuzzFeed, Inc., 356 F. Supp. 3d 368, 377 (S.D.N.Y. 2019).

Here, the Complaint alleges the requisite elements. [Comp, ¶¶ 21-27] ‘The Digital Millennium Copyright Act (“DMCA”) provides that courts may award between $2,500 and $25,000 in statutory damages for violation of section 1202(b). See 17 U.S.C. § 1203(c)(3)(B).

This Court has recently awarded $10,000 in statutory damages for a DMCA violation in a case involving a single photograph, without any proof of actual losses. See Ward v. MusicLife Entertainment Group, LLC, 18-cv-08457-MKV (S.D.N.Y. 9/23/20) [Dkt. # 43] Other courts in this Circuit have also awarded $10,000 in statutory damages for a defaulting defendant’s violation of § 1202(b) of the DMCA. See Hirsch v. The Dishh, LLC, 18-cv-9079 (LGS) (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 10, 2018) (“Defendant shall pay $10,000.00 in statutory damages as civil penalties for removal and/or alteration of copyright management information in violation of 17 U.S.C. § 1202(b)”); *Martinka v. June 27, 2018) (awarding “$10,000 in civil penalties for improper removal of copyright management information” in violation of 17 U.S.C. § 1202(b)); Myeress v. Brissi Group, LLC, 17-cv-9691

(KPF) (S.D.N.Y. June 25, 2018) (awarding “$10,000 in civil penalties for improper removal of copyright management information” in violation of 17 U.S.C. § 1202(b)).

POINT V: THE COURT SHOULD AWARD $680.00 IN ATTORNEYS’ FEES AND $440.00 IN COSTS AND POST-JUDGMENT INTEREST

A. THE COURT SHOULD AWARD $680.000 IN ATTORNEYS’ FEES

Under the Copyright Act, an award of fees is appropriate to promote the goal of deterrence where the evidence supports a finding of willfulness. See Kepner-Tregoe, Inc. v. Vroom, 186 F.3d 283, 289 (2d Cir.1999); see also U2 Home Entm’t, Inc. v. Lai Ying Music & Video Trading, Inc., No. 04-CV-1233 (DLC), 2005 WL 1231645, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. May 25, 2005); Peer Int’l Corp., 2004 WL 1542253, at *5. Here, willfulness may be inferred from defendant’s default. See Microsoft Corp., 2008 WL 4179653, at *13 (awarding attorneys’ fees); Entral Group Int’l, LLC, 2006 WL 3694584, at *6 (same).

“Defendant’s default ordinarily would weigh in favor of awarding attorneys’ fees and costs under 17 U.S.C. § 505.” CJ Prod. LLC, 2012 WL 2856068, at *3; see also All-Star Mktg. Grp., 775 F.Supp.2d at 628 (awarding plaintiff reasonable attorney’s fees in a copyright infringement case where defendant defaulted); Pearson Educ., Inc. v. Vergara, 2010 WL 3744033 at *5 (“awarding costs and attorney’s fees is warranted, in order to compensate the plaintiffs for the costs they incurred to retain counsel to initiate this litigation and secure judgment by default”); Gladys Music v. Bilbat Radio, Inc., No. 07–CV–6086, 2007 WL 3033960 at *1 (W.D.N.Y. Oct. 15, 2007) (awarding plaintiff reasonable attorney’s fees in a copyright infringement case where defendant defaulted and the amount of attorneys’ fees “due to Plaintiffs ... deriv[ed] from Defendants' repeated violations of copyright law.”)

When determining the reasonableness of attorneys' fees, this Circuit uses the "lodestar method," which involves comparison of the rates charged by the prevailing party's counsel with the rates charged by attorneys of similar skill and experience practicing in the same locality. See, e.g. Regulatory Fundamentals Grp. LLC v. Governance Risk Mgmt. Compliance, LLC, No. 13 Civ. 2493 (KBF), 2014 WL 4792082, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 24, 2014) ("In recent years, New York district courts have approved rates for experienced law firm partners in the range of $500 to $800 per hour."); Mahan v. Roc Nation, LLC, No. 14 Civ. 5075 (LGS), 2016 WL 4718018, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 9, 2016) (approving partners' hourly rates of $565 to $855).

Here, Plaintiff has adequately supported her claims for attorneys' fees by submitting an attorney declaration, contemporaneous time records, and a statement regarding each attorney's individual billing rate which at $425/hr. is consistent with the local market for legal services in the field of copyright litigation. [See Declaration of Richard Liebowitz, Dkt. #18, p. 8] Mr. Liebowitz's hourly rate of $425 was approved in Idir v. La Calle TV, LLC, No. 19-CV-6251 (JGK), 2020 WL 4016425, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. July 15, 2020).

B. THE COURT SHOULD AWARD $440.00 IN COSTS

Pursuant to section 505 of the Copyright Act, Plaintiff can also recover his claimed costs for filing fees, service fees, and postage either as allowed costs under the general cost recovery statute, 28 U.S.C. § 1920, or under 17 U.S.C. § 505.

Here, Plaintiff has sufficiently documented her costs by submission of contemporaneous time records listing disbursements and expenditures. [Dkt. #18, p. 9] Overall, the fees and costs sought are reasonable, and are recoverable under the applicable statutes.

C. THE COURT SHOULD AWARD POST-JUDGMENT INTEREST UNDER 28 U.S.C.A. § 1961

Under federal law, “[i]nterest shall be allowed on any money judgment in a civil case recovered in a district court.” 28 U.S.C.A. § 1961. Accordingly, it is appropriate for the Court to award post-judgment interest here. “Such interest shall be calculated from the date of the entry of the judgment, at a rate equal to the weekly average 1-year constant maturity Treasury yield, as published by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, for the calendar week preceding the date of the judgment.” Id.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing reasons, the Court should enter a default judgment against Defendant for liability for copyright infringement; for violation of section 1202(b)(3) of the DMCA and enter a judgment on statutory damages in the amount of $30,000 for Count I, $10,000 for Count II, plus $680.00 in attorneys’ fees and $440.00 in costs.
